Papineau Competition

Announce Cup Topics For Preliminaries Today

Topics for today's preliminaries in the Papineau Cup oratorical contest were announced yesterday by Bob Gualtieri, special events chairman of the Debating Union.

They are: 1) Challenge and Response; 2) A Woman Is A Woman, But A Cigar Is A Good Smoke; and 3) Time Is A Great Legalizer.

PLAY'S POWER, TENSION PRAISED BY DIRECTOR

The qualities of power and tension in Jean-Paul Sartre's long one act play, No Exit, were praised yesterday by director Dave Berlin, explaining its choice by the McGill Players' Club for its show, Dramatic.

Mr. Berlin also took note of the cleverness and ingenuity of the plot, as well as the fact that it is particularly well suited to the arena stage of the Walter M. Stewart room of the Union, where it will be performed.

Dramatic will be staged Friday and Saturday of this week. The main feature, No Exit, deals with three people, all dead, and sent to the Hell of Sartre's imagination. Each has been guilty of some crime.

Estelle, played by Dolly Humphreys, was a nymphomaniac; Inez, acted by Pearl Sheffy, a lesbian; and Garcin, acted by H. G. Bialik, a coward. They are eternally confined to a single room, to torture each other. There is No Exit to the room.

Ticket sales manager Peter Engel advised students to obtain tickets early, as supply is limited. They may be obtained from George in the McGill Union Tuck Shop or by phoning MA. 4080. The price is 75 cents.

The preliminaries will be held from 1 to 3 pm in the Union's Walter M. Stewart Room. Contestants simply present themselves to Mr. Gualtieri, who will be chairman, and will speak in order of signing.

Three finalists will be chosen by the judges, Professor R.H.L. Slater, Faculty of Divinity, Professor J. W. Miller, department of philosophy, and E. N. Clarke, of the English department. The finals will be held Friday, with principal and vice chancellor Dr. F. Cyril James as judge.

Contestants for the Papineau Cup, emblematic of the finest speaker in the university, will speak from eight to 10 minutes on any of the topics. Last year's finalists were John Fraser, who eventually won, Claude Armand Sheperd, and Bryce Weir.

Misener Is Speaker To Radio Workshop

Dick Misener, assistant manager of radio station CFCF, will be the guest speaker at today's meeting of Radio Workshop, in the Union broadcasting station in the Union attic, at 1 pm. He will lead a discussion of commercial radio at present, and look into the future.

Workshop officials urged all members to attend, as part of the discussion will feature the possibility of jobs in commercial radio. Members who wish to pursue a radio career will have an opportunity to be placed in stations across Canada.

Mr. Misener is one of the leading executives in Canadian radio, and has led sales staffs ranging from the Maritimes to the Prairies.

CANADA-INDIAN FUTURE UNDECIDED BY DEBATE

Another in the series of inter-faculty debates was held yesterday between Commerce and Graduate Studies. The topic: Resolved that we should give Canada back to the Indians, ended in a draw decision.

The first speaker of the affirmative, Jim Lotz, M.A., said he spoke for the government of Canada. He suggested a redistribution of the population stating that because the Indians were God's "frozen people", our country would greatly prosper.

Neville Linton, upholding the negative, stated that it would be unfair to give Canada back to the Indians as the Eskimos were here first.

The second affirmative speaker,

Herman Gelber, showed that Canada cannot possibly survive without the Indians, mentioning many of their living habits.

The final speaker, Michael Beausang, quoting from Kipling's "east is east . . .", stipulated that since the Indians came from the east they should go back to the east. He went on to say that they would hinder communications with their smoke signals, and dandruff removers with their scalp removers.

Len Max, chairman, asked the House to vote on this question. The result was a draw.

Novice Semifinals In Union Today

The two semifinal debates of the novice tournament will take place in the Union today at 1 pm.

Renee Rothman and Gordon Wasserman will uphold the affirmative of the resolution, "that the site of this university should be moved to MacDonald College grounds." Challengers will be Sy Steinman and Perry Cohen.

In the other debate, Ted Reich and Danny Trevick will defend the topic, "Resolved that the Communist party should be outlawed in Canada." They will be opposed by Dave Schatla and Stan Blicker.

ALABAMA STUDENTS USE 'STRONG STUFF' IN VIOLENT REACTION

A decision that "We Love Lucy" by the University of Manitoba has received a violent reaction from University of Alabama students, according to dispatches from Winnipeg received here last night.

There was a reported flood of letters from Alabama students, generally criticizing Manitoba's stand on the racial problem involving Negro student Autherine Lucy, at Alabama.

Labelled "strong stuff" by the Manitobans, the letters were a reply to a telegram sent Feb. 9 by the Manitoba Students Union protesting the treatment accorded Miss Lucy. Contents of the letters are due to be released Friday in the student newspaper, The Manitoban.

They were described as "stinging attacks on our university and Canadians as a whole," and "quite bitter."

It is understood that Manitoba university officials frowned upon the action by the Student Union, which protested "the bigoted and uncivilized treatment given Autherine Lucy by the University of Alabama," and commended her for her "fight for equality and human rights."

Julius Koteles, Student Union president elect, who returned from a national debating tournament in Ottawa, said he would be inclined to not interfere with the policies of another university.

3 CHOICES AVAILABLE IN LUCY REFERENDUM

The referendum vote on the Autherine Lucy issue will be taken tomorrow, and makes three choices available:

(1) Do you approve the Student's Executive Council writing a letter of encouragement to Miss Autherine Lucy of the University of Alabama?

(2) Do you approve of offering her a scholarship at McGill University from Student Society funds if she is forced to abandon her struggle at Alabama?

(3) Do you approve of providing a scholarship at McGill for some other victim of racial prejudice from the southern US in the event that Miss Lucy does not attend McGill on a scholarship?

A person can vote either yes or no on any one issue. Voting on one issue has no effect on any of the other issues.

This is the first time that a referendum vote has ever been taken at McGill. The referendum clause in the constitution was passed last year by the Students' Society. Any change in the constitution has to also be approved by the Senate. The Senate would not approve the clause until the number of students required to pass the referendum was changed from 300 students to 20 per cent of the student body. This change was made at a recent Students' Society meeting.

How Procedure Works

Now that all the technicalities have been cleared, it is possible to use this procedure and this is how it works. A referendum cannot be taken on any issue at all until a Students' Society meeting has first been called to discuss the issue.

If there is no quorum at this meeting or the quorum is lost, and the SEC thinks the issue important enough, it calls a referendum vote. If the SEC does not consider the matter important enough, the issue is just dropped.

Any decision taken by a referendum is just as binding as a motion passed at a Student Society meeting.

If anyone wanted to adopt another course of action instead of the one now being taken, a petition with 250 names would have to be submitted to the President of the Students' Society asking that a meeting of the Society be called.

Bishop J. J. Wright Is Speaker Tonight

"Our Times: An Age of Fear" is the topic of a talk being given tonight at 8:30 pm in Moyse Hall. The speaker is the noted American writer and lecturer, Most Reverend John J. Wright, D. D., Bishop of Worcester, Mass. The public is invited.

Bishop Wright is at McGill to preach the Catholic Mission, sponsored by Newman Club. The Mission opens today, in the Union Ballroom. The sermons are at 1:05

ECONOMY

The following memo was posted on a CBX notice board. We feel that Canadian citizens will be more than happy to see this example of their Government's diligence in guarding their funds.

SUBJECT: CBX Announcers

I have studied with a great deal of sympathy your request dated June 8 suggesting CBX announcers be provided with a copy of The Gazette. I am sorry, but I do not agree with you.

I cannot see any good reason why this should be. There is no equivalent service supplied to other groups of announcers in the building. Furthermore the newsroom provides the announcers with all the sports data needed for broadcast.

As regards the general news picture, announcers are better off than most of us since they themselves read the newscasts.

If the request were granted, I could see it leading to a lot of abuse. For instance what if some announcers would prefer receiving The Herald? or The Star?

What good reason would we have to justify this expenditure of public funds? Mustn't we rely upon our announcers to keep personally abreast of anything that may improve their general knowledge and usefulness?

S:—Please feel free to take it up with the Regional Director above my head if you think you should pursue this further. I won't be offended in any way.

IN A RUT

The McGill Community is permeated with a pre-exam aura of fearful anticipation. In only two weeks Campus activity will come to a virtual close — or rather transfer itself to the confines of the Library. An intellectual conditioning is in order to make this change less harmful to the student mental balance. This conditioning is supplied to release the mind from its pleasurable indifference, to stimulate the thinking processes and massage the brain tissues toward an ideal exam preparation.

Between March 2 and 10th there is an outstanding array of theatrical, musical and other presentations offered to the student. Besides indicating a commendable activity among the campus clubs and societies concerned, this varied program promises to provide the conditioning noted above. In theatre the Players Club offers "No Exit" and "Dramatic". The English Department presents "Much Ado About Nothing" and the Music Club gives a concert. WUS brings the Russian Ambassador to speak. SCOPE sponsors an architect, an exhibition and a concert.

May we recommend that advantage be taken of such stimulating and enjoyable menu. What better way is there to kick off for the exam series.

Letters to the Editor

Yellow?

Sir:

I have noticed in the local weekend papers that you people at McGill have declared a heavyweight champion by the name of Norm Zavalkoff. I also noticed, however, that McGill did not enter a heavyweight in the recent Intercollegiate Boxing championships.

It would seem to us at Varsity that McGill boxers, as exemplified by Norm Zavalkoff, are yellow. I will be happy, though, to come to Montreal at my own expense at any time during the next week to meet Zavalkoff in a 5-round bout to prove my point.

I await an answer, chickens.

George Jenkins,
Heavyweight boxing champion,
Varsity University,
Toronto, Ontario.

Pure Democracy

Sir:

When I first came to McGill, I was very much pleased with the system of having Students' Society meetings to make the major decisions facing the students. Here, at last, was "pure democracy" of the type practised at "town meetings" (which I had often read about) complete with parliamentary procedure. However, several incidents of the last few weeks together with some reflection have changed my opinion. I now feel some major improvements might be made upon the existing set-up.

To begin with, it appears to me that having 300 students making decisions for 5,000 is somewhat undemocratic. A great many people simply cannot come because of lectures, labs and eating arrangements. Others find it inconvenient to come because they are not in the vicinity of the University at the time. Still others, I suppose the great majority, don't care enough to come. Yet the fact remains that even if all these people could present themselves at a Students' Society meeting, not more than about 500 could take part because of lack of space. Thus, even under ideal conditions with the total eradication of "student apathy" pure democracy couldn't take place. McGill is simply too big, and there is something just a bit farcical about the emphasis on democracy, when there is just a small fraction of the student body present at the meetings.

Secondly it is usually 1:15 by the time a quorum is obtained and as the meeting is expected to end at 1:55 this leaves 40 minutes in which to conduct a meeting. As we have seen, this is not enough to give everyone a chance to speak. If one is not fortunate enough to be seated towards the front and recognizable to the chairman, all of the constructive suggestions he might have for the meeting will be lost. Also, the time pressure is instrumental in preventing people from thinking a matter through clearly, prior to voting on it. I, for one, am incapable of listening to a complex motion, deciphering the tangled wording of it, picking out the actual implications form the emotional appeal and voting on it, all within the space of five minutes, as was recently required of me in the closing minutes of a Students' Society meeting.

What I suggest would overcome some of these ills, is a system of referendums in which students would have the opportunity to vote on all presented resolutions and amendments, after having read about them in The Daily several days before and after having attended a public meeting discussing them, at which a quorum would be necessary. In this way, more of the student body would be able to and would find it convenient to vote; students would find it possible to think through, discuss and perhaps understand the issues they are voting for; and perhaps a greater degree of democracy and a more enlightened student body might be obtained.

Stephen Baron, B.Sc. II.

Protective Measure

Sir:

It is true to say, I think, that censorship is a protective measure. It is used to protect the innocent and the weak. In this sense, I would agree with Mr. Kingsbury, it is an indication of a society's weakness. It is an indication of fear in the sense that those who use it fear the corruption of the weak and innocent. This is the fear which a parent manifests towards a child in moral or physical danger. It is a fear born of love. (For this reason what I have to say does not apply to Communist countries.) Thus censorship is used as a shield against evil. In this sense it is a prudent measure and an indication of the wisdom of those who use it.

What is the censor trying to protect from harm? Is it no more than man imperfect and weak? Does it necessarily indicate an exceptionally weak society? Does it not perhaps indicate a society which is wise enough and humble to recognize its own weaknesses, which are no more than those of human beings in general and as a consequence to provide means to protect its members from those who wish to take advantage of these weaknesses? This censorship does not have as its purpose the protection of weaknesses, but the protection of the weak. Since when is the protection of the weak and innocent an indication of weakness? I have always understood it as a great virtue.

Zav Challenges Marciano

GEORGE "KID" MARCIANO

LET'S FACE IT

The sickening emergence of Norm Zavalkoff to contention for the world heavyweight boxing crown has created a bubble of enthusiasm on the campus which has even surpassed the interest stimulated when the Davy Crockett fad captured the hearts of our college folk.

Hard working salesmen have been scurrying around the campus pawning off such quick selling items as Norm Zavalkoff tuques, Norm Zavalkoff galoshes (with built in toe-nail cutters) and Norm Zavalkoff toothpaste with the new ingredient Horsh. In addition the Daily Sports office has been flooded with requests of autographed photos, taken exclusively for the occasion by Schnook of Montreal.

If the fight takes place, it will be held sometimes in the afternoon as Marciano is not allowed out at night by his mother.

INTRAMURAL SPORTS

Extramural Festival

Intramural champions from Sir George Williams College, Macdonald College, College Militaire Royal and McGill University will compete for the Extramural Championship Shield on Wednesday, February 29th, at 7:30 sharp, at the Sir Arthur Currie Memorial Gymnasium.

Competitions will include Basketball, Volleyball, Swimming and Rifery. All colleges have hopes to make a strong bid for championship laurels and competition should be keen.

McGill's power will come mainly from the Faculties of Medicine and Engineering, as it is hoped that the Tridents championship Volleyball team and the Med. 2 A' championship Basketball team will participate. Members from the McGill Rifle and Pistol Club and intramural swimming champions are also expected to compete.

This Extramural climax of the various intramural programs seems to instill more competitive spirit in the many leagues and tournaments operating during the current year.

COLBY CAGE STAR ENTERS MEDICINE

Justin "Red" Cross, a bustling basketball player from Colby College in Maine, has been admitted into Medicine by McGill and is expected to line up with Joe Anderson's cage squad next season.

The lanky 6'5" forward starred with Rockland High School in Waterville, Maine and then moved up to Colby College where he helped his side in winning the State Championship the last two years.

Cross played in all his team's games this year despite a painful back injury which he suffered in a fall practise and plagues him the rest of the season. He still maintained a 80 per cent field goal average and sparked in a defensive role, pulling 182 rebounds off the board.

The 200 pound Cross may prove to be just what the doctor ordered for the low scoring McGill crew. He is reported to have won several games for the Colby quintet with his clutch playing.

DAILY RING RATINGS HEAVYWEIGHT

Champion — Rocky Marciano
Logical Contenders — Floyd Patterson, Norm Zavalkoff.

No Evil In Youth Ideals

No more war, poverty or disease, no racial and class prejudice, no colonialism, and no group pressure — all would be eliminated in the ideal worlds of 11 students who participated in a World Youth Forum last Sunday, in St. James United Church.

And, according to Professor Maxwell Cohen, of the McGill Law Faculty, the time will come when this type of world will be produced, "the world we want."

The 11 student panel represented the major cultural and racial divisions of mankind, and were from McGill, the University of Montreal and Sir George Williams College. The students appeared in native dress. Professor Cohen acted as moderator in the discussion, which was sponsored by the Montreal branch of the United Nations Association.

Will Come Eventually

The panel admitted they didn't expect to see their dream world come about right away, but they thought that if people were earnest, honest and religious, and loved one another, it would eventually come.

Views ranged from advocates of one world to more immediate problems. David Trevil, representing China, claimed that nationalism is the greatest enemy of mankind; Zafar Khan, representing eastern Islam, argued that Pakistan should be allowed to absorb Kashmir.

Moderator Cohen tried to keep the panelists towards "the bridge joining peoples", and away from differences. "Great minds are now seeking not how to freeze hatreds, but how to solve them," he said.

Emphasizes Freedom

Jim Lotz, representing western Europe, emphasized individual freedom in a future world. He said he wanted a world of "people who are human beings, not automations."

Bernard Chidzero, representing Africa, asked for a world free from racial prejudice. He noted that Africa is still subject to outside domination.
